County Treasurer Walter L. Ortigesen announced today that taxpayers of Lee county will be permitted to pay their taxes, penalty free, until Wednesday, June 3, on account of the double week-end holiday. ## PARENTS NOT TO ATTEND QUINTS' BIRTHDAY FETE

Detroit, May 28—(AP)—Additional indications of the far reaching aspirations of the Black Legion, hooded terrorist society, came today as investigators disclosed one county prosecuting attorney had admitted membership in a claimed affiliate of the order, and further evidence was uncovered of a women's auxiliary unit.

Prosecutor David C. Pence of Oakland (Pontiac) county, said in a formal statement today he had been induced by misrepresentation in 1934 to join the "Twenty and Club" which later became the Bullet club, Pontiac branch of the Black Legion.

Pence declared he never had taken the oath, however, and that he withdrew from the organization in 1935 and appealed to federal agents in Detroit to investigate it.

Indications that Mrs. Grace Lupp, wife of Arthur F. Lupp, Sr., admitted Michigan recruiting officer for the Black Legion, may have headed the women's auxiliary of the hooded order were seen by Police Inspector John Hoffman, who declared Mrs. Lupp's name appeared as sponsor on some confiscated membership applications.

Auxiliary Disbanded?

Hoffman said he has information that the auxiliary had been disbanded recently.

Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert opened an investigation to determine whether the black-clad band whose members are charged with murder, floggings and arson in Michigan, had included a reported "60 or 70" police officers in its secret roster.

Miss Duffy was a sister of the late Mrs. Thomas McKune of near Walton and had many acquaintances in this locality.

Except for a half hour before the radio tonight, during which the program director hoped the five famous girls would coo and tap at the proper moments for an international hookup, there was no deviation from the routine of the Dafne hospital.

David Croll, chief guardian for the little girls, announced the parents had been invited to the celebration tonigh but that they indicated a refusal. The parents did not attend the children's birthday party a year ago, either.

"Out of the panic-stricken area of the flood zone came the cry: 'We are without light; we have no contract with the power-house."

"No light, no power, and at the mercy of wild forces we can neither resist nor control. Is not that a picture of the plight of the world? We are so helpless in face of the situation."

"In spite of our alleged civilization, our presumed culture, our boasted progress, we seem to be suffering a ghastly slip backward. Neither our wisdom nor our religion can avert disaster."

"If only we might understand that frankness, honesty, love, loyalty, and faith are the way out, making the earth not a shambles, but a sharing of health, wealth and happiness for all the race!"

"But no. The flood of hate and fear and pride shuts out the light, and there is no contact with the power-house of God. We have truth and power, but do not seem able to apply and use it."

"All of us share the feeling of my reader, and it is very easy to fall into a mood of dejected fatalism, akin to despair. Our wisdom seems so impotent, our goodwill so powerless and futile."

The world seems to be in the grip of a new paganism, armed up to the hilt, and headed for the ditch. The future staggers imagination, in view of the advance made in the art of destruction.

Science cannot save us. Nor philosophy nor art. Only a renewal of the spiritual life of man can do it, some rebirth of the soul into new vision of realities upon which human life rests.

In my opinion we shall never have an awakening of faith until we have an advance of social justice. The ancient word is: Do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with God—but justice is first.

An old prophet prayed: "Let justice flow down like a river, and righteousness like a mighty stream." Until that prayer is answered by us, we are going to have cruel confusion on earth. (Copyright, 1936, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Annual Birthday Luncheon Enjoyed

The Presbyterian Missionary Society held their annual birthday luncheon Friday at the hospitable home of Mrs. W. C. Durkes. The program committee had planned a very entertaining afternoon for the large number of members present.

After luncheon the regular business meeting took place Mrs. J. Frank Young led the devotions. Mrs. Durkes then introduced Mrs. C. R. Walgreen who gave a short informal talk, telling of the splendid work of the Missionary Kagawa, who spoke at the meeting of the Federated Club presidents in Chicago a few weeks ago. Mrs. Walgreen also told of the wonderful work being done by this man in his own country.

The president, Mrs. Thomson, then introduced Mrs. Arthur Morris as the principal speaker of the afternoon who delighted her audience with a travel talk on Mexico and New Mexico. She visited these interesting countries the latter part of the winter and her talk was very entertaining. Many beautiful articles of pottery and Mexican drawn work were on display collected by Mrs. Morris on her trip.

The president closed the afternoon with the Mizpah was repeated by the Society.

The world seems to be in the grip of a new paganism, armed up to the hilt, and headed for the ditch. The future staggers imagination, in view of the advance made in the art of destruction.

Science cannot save us. Nor philosophy nor art. Only a renewal of the spiritual life of man can do it, some rebirth of the soul into new vision of realities upon which human life rests.

In my opinion we shall never have an awakening of faith until we have an advance of social justice. The ancient word is: Do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with God—but justice is first.

An old prophet prayed: "Let justice flow down like a river, and righteousness like a mighty stream." Until that prayer is answered by us, we are going to have cruel confusion on earth. (Copyright, 1936, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Golden Wedding Of Freeport Couple

Of interest to Dixon friends is the following report of the celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Jurgensmeier in Freeport, parents of Mrs. Norman Dietrich of this city. The following item appeared in Wednesday's Journal Standard:

Mr. and Mrs. William Jurgensmeier, 509 South Ottawa avenue, are celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary today, surrounded by their children and grandchildren.

A family dinner was served noon to the immediate relatives, and open house is being held this afternoon and evening, the children assisting in the entertainment.

There are five of the ten children living, and all but one, Carl Jurgensmeier, of Detroit, were present for the day. The children are: Mrs. O. C. Garnhart, German Valley; Mrs. Fred Altenber, Lena; Mrs. Norman Dietrich, Dixon, and John Jurgensmeier, of this city. There are ten grandchildren, one Cecil Garnhart, passing away two years ago this month, and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Jurgensmeier's only brother, Martin Geiser, of Hartley, Ia., his wife and son, are here for the celebration. Ices and cake will be served afternoons and evening, two granddaughters, Mrs. Dwight Garnhart and Mrs. Wallace Garnhart, doing the honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Jurgensmeier have received many gifts of flowers, and cards; messages and telegrams have come from absent relatives and friends.

Mrs. Jurgensmeier's maiden name was Elizabeth Geiser and she was born seventy years ago in Hockenheim, Germany, coming to the United States and directly to Pearl City when a girl of eleven years. William Jurgensmeier was born seventy-seven years ago in Lippe Detmold, Germany, and did not leave the fatherland until 26 years of age. He, too, settled near Pearl City, and a year later the marriage took place at the parsonage of the German Reformed church in this city, now the Zion Reformed church. A wedding reception followed at Pearl City, at the home of the bride's cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. Jurgensmeier went to housekeeping in Pearl City and as a stone mason, brick and cement contractor. Mr. Jurgensmeier assisted in erecting many of the buildings of Pearl City, Nora and Dakota.

In 1912 they moved to Lena, and in 1918 to Freeport. They have made their home here for the past

ROMANS NEVER PUT UP A "QUODDY PROJECT"

Whenever an ardent patriot wants to pay his America the supreme compliment, he looks about at its great construction works and announces that Americans are the greatest builders since the ancient Romans.

It is a pretty thought, and such things as Hoover Dam and the Panama Canal justify it. But it has remained for the present administration to go the Romans one better by sinking a pile of money in a building project for which the country has no earthly use.

This has happened up on the rockbound shores of Maine, where the tasteful white houses of Quoddy Village gleam in the morning sun and cause one to wonder what in the world the country will ever do with them.

Quoddy, orphan child of Uncle Sam, is as charming a village as you would care to find. Its houses represent a million dollars in cash and a vast amount of loving care, the evidences of which are to be found in maple love seats, colonial candlesticks, grandfather's clocks, and other samples of the interior decorator's art.

It was built to house workers in the great tidal power project. This project has lately been counted out by Congress. The workers presently will scatter to the four winds, the tides will rise and fall un vexed by machinery, and the beautiful village will remain as a lasting memorial to an age that could build to perfection, but to no good purpose.

Consider, for just a moment, the topsy-turvyness of the civilization that built Quoddy.

Every city in America has its desolate, disease-breeding, crime-incubating slums. They lie across the land like ugly, filthy sores, costing us stupendous sums in illness, in bad citizenship, in general human misery.

In three or four spots the government has moved, timidly, to rebuild—under a set-up which makes it certain that the former slum dwellers cannot afford to move into the new houses being erected to replace those being destroyed.

Up at Quoddy, where there never was and never will be a housing shortage, we show the sort of dwellings we can put up when we set our minds to the job; dwellings that are pleasant, airy, substantial, home-like, inviting, fit for a race of free men and women. But—and this is the point—having built them, we have no use for them.

The Romans, those other great builders, were a superstitious and unenlightened people in many respects. But when they set out to do a job of building, they at least figured out what they really needed—and then built it where they could use it.

HITLERIZED POLITICS

Political reprisals invariably mark an election year, but this time the punitive machinery is getting in motion earlier than usual—starting, in fact, on the heels of the first primary returns.

Already one state chairman, representing a major political party, has announced that all state employees who failed to support the governor in the primary will be discharged for disloyalty.

"That's usual, of course," explained this particular politician. "The boys who are not loyal will have to go. That does not apply to civil service, naturally. Neither is this a reprisal."

But what else is it? Surely the wholesale dismissal of state employees, because they choose to vote as they please, looks no better in America than it does in Nazi Germany.

Moreover, one of the certain dangers of this infamous practice is that it can undermine the merit system. It is defenseless on any grounds.

THE "HUMAN" COURT

Why there should be any consternation because the U. S. Supreme Court justices are not unanimous in their vital opinions on New Deal legislation is certainly not readily apparent.

Experts in all fields of knowledge almost invariably have disagreed. Is it logical to assume that an important body such as the supreme court, composed of men of varying experiences, should reach unanimity in everything it does?

Chief Justice Hughes himself said recently, in an address before the American Law Institute: "It is not possible that in the interpretation and application of complicated principles of law they (the justices) should be all of one mind, or be able, on demand, to rise above their environment so as to function in a higher region of icy uncertainty."

Divided opinions merely testify to the infinite complexity of the legal process as modern civilization has devised it.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Cleveland, like a great many other large American cities, is troubled incessantly with traffic violators. And tickets, the city has found, don't seem to stem the tide of difficulties.

So officials have resorted to immediate booking of violators. Drivers are taken to the nearest precinct stations upon arrest and, if they can provide bond, are released for trial. If a driver desires, the case can be disposed of within 24 hours.

That is in contrast to the old system, that of issuing a summons. The trouble with the summons, police point out, is that it often fails to bring in the defendant. Moreover, the lag in prosecution over a period of weeks opens the way for "fixing."

What effect the Cleveland experiment will have on its traffic remains to be seen. But it does look like a good tip for any city with a clogged traffic docket.

SEX AND TUMORS

Progress in medicine is like the solution of a jigsaw puzzle. An instance is the piecing together of the fragmentary knowledge recently gathered on the functions of the female reproductive and sexual system.

Within the last 10 years the female sexual hormone has been discovered. A hormone is the product of one of the glands of internal secretion. This one has been studied from many angles, and certain discoveries link the hormone to the cause but to the mystery of tumor growth.

The Lancet believes that these investigations surely will lead to better understanding of the origin of tumors, and to a clear view of the therapeutic, or healing, possibilities and limitations of the female sexual hormone.

Chemists have established that there is a similarity between the chemical structure of the female sexual hormone and the known cancer-producing agents. The latter are derived from certain crude oils and are employed in the study of experimentally produced cancers.

Fishermen during 1935 made a gross income of $134,000 through the sale of 2,344,000 pounds of fish scales. These were sold to paint manufacturers for use in "pearl-essence" paint.

To pursue this study, experimenters have administered enormous doses of the female sexual hormone to experimental animals. They have found that in certain animals this gave rise to certain types of tumors.

A race of mice was used in which there is a frequent occurrence of spontaneous tumors in the breasts of the female. The experiments revealed that the administration of large doses of the female sexual hormone induced the development of tumors in the breasts of males, but paradoxically inhibited tumor development in the female. Furthermore, it was shown that large doses of the female sexual hormone also effected abnormal changes in the gland known as the pituitary, located at the base of the brain. This gland also exerts a profound effect on body growth.

The Lancet believes that these investigations surely will lead to better understanding of the origin of tumors, and to a clear view of the therapeutic, or healing, possibilities and limitations of the female sexual hormone.

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the body. Healthy persons should pass about 3 pounds a day to get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous.

It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"My goodness, what an awful sound, it can be heard for miles around," said Dotty, as brave Scouty rang the bell with all his might.

"I hope the bell cord will not break. Be careful, now, for goodness sake. Thus far our visit to this place has turned out quite all right."

"Ha, ha," laughed Duncy. "You tease me for being frightened as can be, but you are scared, yourself, right now. Don't tease me any more."

"I'm game enough to stand right here and, frankly, I'm not filled with fear. I'll gladly make the best. Then someone else can take a turn, if your arms, too, get sore."

Just then they heard somebody shout, "What is the ringing all about? Who are you little youngsters, and what are you doing here?"

"If you are friendly, that's all right. If not, please scamper out of sight. You are the first tots I've seen since the first day of this year."

The tiny bird gazed around in awe. Then in a big tree hole they saw a very happy looking man. Said Goldy, "Well, hello!"

"We merely came to visit you, and do just what you tell us to. An old prospector sent us. Kindly do not make us go."

Cookery News Notes Compiled By Lucile Harris

By Lucile Harris
NEAT IMPORTANT FOOD ELEMENT IN CHILD'S DIET

A child needs a generous amount of meat in his daily diet, if he is to grow into the sturdy, well-built adult he should some day be. That is a statement pretty well agreed upon by physicians and dieticians these days. There are times when listening to all the talk about eating lots of spinach and drinking enough milk, the mother may wonder just how important the meat course is in the youngsters' meals. For one thing, children as a rule like meat and need no coaxing to eat it and for that very reason Mother may wonder if it is good for them. So often the things that are best for us aren't those we like best!

But in this case, appetite proves a reliable guide. Milk, of course, is very important, as, too, are vegetables and fruit. But meat, with its high quality of protein, the body-building food element, is definitely indispensable to the growing child.

A child's natural liking for meat may be turned to advantage if meat and vegetables are cooked together as in a stew. The meat is already cut up for him, an advantage with small children.

Lamb Stew with Vegetables.
2 pounds breast lamb
2 cups potatoes, in thick slices
2 cups carrots, cut in inch cubes
1 bunch celery, cut in 3 inch lengths
Flour
Salt and pepper

Have the meat cut into small pieces, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Cut some of the fat in small pieces and fry out. Add meat and brown. Cover with hot water and simmer until meat is tender. During the last hour of cooking, add carrots, potatoes and celery. Place meat in a mound in the center of the platter and around it arrange carrots and potatoes in separate groups.

Although spinach may not be so unpopular as the humorists would have us believe, still it undoubtedly is improved by the addition of the flavor of meat. Even a spinach-hater would change his views when the following dish is set before him:

Molded Spinach and Bacon

2 pounds fresh spinach or No. 3 can spinach
5 strips bacon, sliced thin and broiled crisp
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper

Cook spinach in boiling, salted water for 15 minutes. Cooking without the cover preserves the fresh, green color. Use about 1 quart of water to 2 pounds spinach. If canned spinach is used, heat the contents of the can slowly.

When tender, strain and season with butter, salt and pepper. Add bacon, which has been risped and broken in small pieces. Pack into individual molds or cups and set in the oven to keep hot. Turn out on serving plate.

Creamed meats are relished by children.

Creamed Veal on Toast
2 cups chopped cooked veal
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Creamed Bacon and Potatoes
1 cup finely chopped cooked bacon

2 cups potatoes, cut in dice
3 tablespoons bacon drippings
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Paprika
Salt and pepper

Add flour to bacon drippings and brown. Stir in the milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth. Add bacon and seasoning, then potatoes. Cover and heat over a very slow fire. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika. Serve hot.

Of course you know the particularly important place which liver has in the diet of the child, and what a good source of iron it is. Sometimes a taste for liver has to be acquired. Try giving it to junior and his sister in this casserole home Sunday.

Casserole of Liver

2 pounds pork liver, sliced
8 slices bacon
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup meat stock or water
Salt

Pepper
Cover sliced liver with boiling water and allow it to stand a few minutes. Drain and remove outside membranes. Lay half the bacon in a baking dish. Roll liver in flour and season with salt and pepper. Place on top of bacon. Put remaining slices of bacon on top and cover with meat stock. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.)

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE LAST SUPPER.

Text: Luke 22:7-23.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of Advance

The Last Supper—that is, the Passover meal of which Jesus and His disciples partook before His crucifixion—has a place of unusual significance in Christian history. In memory of it, the church has instituted the practice of Holy Communion, its most typical and distinctive rite.

Just how early this was established is not clear. The disciples, of course, observed each Passover as it came around in the years succeeding the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus; and, as they partook of the meal, it inevitably became associated with that Last Supper with the Master in the upper room.

Paul's clear reference to communion of bread and wine in memory of Jesus makes it plain that, within the first Christian generation, the rite had been fully established.

In later times, besides the distinctly religious and historic significance of the communion service, the great literature and art that have grown up about the Last Supper have made it more distinctive in Christian faith and experience.

But the air of mystery changed to that of tragedy as Jesus indicated His betrayal, and the disciples realized the fatal events that were impending.

We partake of the Lord's Supper today from the vantage ground of a larger experience. For us it is not a symbol of sadness, but one of triumph.

Its roots are not all in the past, but it reaches out into the largeness of a world-wide and ageless fellowship of the Christian faithful; and devout believers partake of the elements of communion with a consciousness of the real presence of Christ.

Observed in all the richness and fullness of its reality, there is no occasion or assembly in the Christian church during which Christians realize more vitally the promise of the Master, "Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst."

GIANTS' LUCK STILL HOLDS; TIE FOR LEAD

Yanks Enjoying The Top Spot in The American Loop

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There seems no keeping those New York Giants out of the National League lead for any length of time, despite their string of tough luck and the expert predictions that they're due to crack wide open any day.

Just a week after they last saw first place they were back on top again today, deadlocked with the gas house gang from St. Louis, and boasting a winning streak that reached five straight yesterday. With Carl Hubbell's mastery of his troublesome Brooklyn Dodger jinx.

Just to give the whole major league situation a more distinctly metropolitan air, the New York Yankees — another outfit for which the experts have given little hope in the pennant chase — were sporting a game-and-a-half lead in the American loop, with two-thirds of their "crucial" series with the Boston Red Sox behind them.

Giants, Cards Tied

The Giants' advance to a first place tie, by a 5-4 12-inning victory over the Dodgers, headed a general re-shuffling of the National league pack in yesterday's program. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati moved up to third and fourth, with wins over the Cardinals 11-2, and Chicago Cubs, 5-3, respectively, sending the Cubs back to fifth. The Dodgers sank into the cellar again through defeat by the Giants, and the Phillies climbed to seventh place with a 5-2 conquest of the Boston Bees.

In the American League, the Yanks started the Red Sox 9-8 in an 11-inning ding-dong affair, which saw Manager Joe Cronin return to the Boston lineup for the first time since he broke a finger in the early days of the season. Cleveland and Chicago exchanged places again in their battle for the bottom berth in the first division. Cleveland moving up by outslugging the helpless St. Louis Browns 11-2, while the White Sox were being trounced by Tommy Bridges and the Detroit Tigers 3-2. The Athletics-Senators game was rained out.

Hager Produces
Only Sub-Par To Assume The Lead

Detroit, May 28—(AP)—Aspirants for the $300 pot of gold in the true temper open golf tournament chanced none other than that links patrician, Walter Hagen, for the top place in second round play today.

The veteran Detroiter, nonchalant in the wind, shot the only sub-par round, a 71, to lead a field of 112 yesterday in this 72-hole tuneup for next week's National open. Birdies on the sixteenth and seventeenth gave Hagen a one-stroke edge over Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, only one equal par 72.

The stat of the second 18 holes today found one amateur Harold Kelly of Detroit, mingling with the pro leaders with a 73, tying him with Bill Barbour of Cleveland for third place.

Tied at 74 were Billy Burke, Cleveland; Harry Cooper, Chicago; Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J.; Jake Fasseck Jackson, Mich., state open champion; Emerick Kocsis, Detroit, and Frank Walsh, Chicago. Mac Donald Smith the Californian, shot a 76, and Chuck Kocsis, Detroit, Big Ten champion, a 79.

Schmeling Weaves, Bobs

Max Schmeling thinks that the weaving, bobbing style of fighting which he adopted to win the world heavyweight championship, and which he had discarded in favor of the standup style when he lost the title, is going to give him a victory over Joe Louis in their coming fight in New York, June 18. Consequently, he's concentrating on his version of the Dempsey method, and here he is shown trying it out on Stanley Ketchell, sparing partner, in his training camp at Napanoch, N. Y.

EAST SCHOOLS OUT TO OBTAIN TRACK HONORS

Far West Schools Un- represented This Spring

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

Philadelphia, May 28 — (AP) —

Minus the high pressure lads from the Pacific coast for the first time since 1920, the Intercollegiate A. A. A. track and field championships will celebrate their 60th anniversary on Franklin Field this week-end under strictly ivy-clad circumstances. Qualifying trials will be held tomorrow and the finals Memorial Day for a meet that will bid farewell to the metric system.

In effect, the California "Big Three," by staying home for their exercise this spring, have given the team prize back to the east, after capturing 14 of the last 15 meets. Southern California, which regains the seventh Trojan triumph of the I. C. 4-a-games last year, has the best college track team in the country. Stanford and California also have a wealth of talent which will be heard from later during the decisive Olympic tests.

Howard Gets Jolt

For the family reunion of the eastern old guard here, the Harvarders were favored to beat the Cornellians, with the rest of a field of 25 colleges scattered in the scoring until it developed yesterday that Milton Green, the Crimson captain and a potential triple winner, had pulled a tendon in practice. Green gained three first places, in the hurdles and broad jump, during Harvard's march to victory in this year's Big Seven meet at Cambridge. Without him, the Crimson will be hard-pressed to meet the challenge of Jack Moakley's big Red team.

Dopers figure Yale, Dartmouth, Princeton, Manhattan, Holy Cross and Michigan State to collect a share of points but all lack the balanced strength of Harvard or Cornell.

Harvard last won the meet in 1909. Cornell's last victory was scored in 1919, ending a five-year reign for the Ithacans. Otherwise, since the war, Pennsylvania in 1920 and Yale in 1924 have been the only eastern colleges to lift the team trophy.

McSpaden Richer $400 Following His Eastern Test

Fitchburg, Mass., May 28—(AP) — Harold (Jug) McSpaden, one of the recent notable additions to Massachusetts' professional golfing ranks, was doubly satisfied today over the results of his first eastern test.

While winning the 30th Massachusetts open tournament yesterday in a keen competition that cost Gene Sarazen the last of his many golfing crowns, McSpaden enriched himself to the extent of $400.

The Winchester pro, formerly of Kansas City, topped a field of 90 with a 72-hole total of 292, a stroke ahead of the runner-up, Wilfred Crossley, young Norfolk amateur. Sarazen tied with Bob Crowley of Norfolk, for fourth place with 297.

McSpaden's $400 was the result of his first eastern test.

Fine Recipes To Be Given Free At Our Cooking School

One rich reward for "perfect attendance" at "Foods on Parade" which the Telegraph will present beginning next Tuesday at the Schuler hall, will be the wealth of valuable, tested recipes which will be given, many of which are demonstrated during the four-day session.

To every woman attending the opening program an illustrated cook-book, "Our Favorite Meat Recipes," will be given. This is in addition to the recipes printed on the program of the day, which in themselves make a varied and valuable collection.

All of these recipes have been carefully selected from the standpoint of the ease with which they may be followed, their practical value to the average housewife and their food value and appetite appeal. Every dish which Miss Lucile Harris prepares has passed these tests. None of the dishes described is elaborate or extravagant. Many call for the economical cuts of meat. Ground meats, neck slices, spare ribs, liver, heart, sausage, and left-over meats are used in new and attractive ways. Dishes which fit well into the limited food budget are featured.

Whole Meal Suggested.

Suggestions for garnishing these dishes are clever and original, without being "freakish." Miss Ruth White, who is Miss Harris' assistant, shows how these are used. In most cases, foods which combine well with the main dish are chosen to give it an attractive appearance. These ideas will appeal to the woman who takes pride in her cookery and likes to have her roasts, chops, and stews look as good as they taste.

On the subject of meat cookery, Miss Harris is especially well qualified to speak. She is a member of the National Liv. Stock and Meat Board, which has done so much valuable research work along this line, in cooperation with the leading universities and colleges and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Foods on Parade" is thus designed to appeal equally to the most practical housewife in the audience, who doesn't care for "fussy things," and to the woman who expresses her artistic sense in her cookery—as well as to the great majority who want to serve nutritious, economical meals with style and distinction.

At the close of each session, the food prepared is given away. Other gifts and prizes have been arranged to make this cooking school the finest and most valuable from every standpoint ever presented in this city.

RECENT investigations into the private life of poison ivy have brought to light more and more of the plant's deadly qualities. Not only the leaves are poisonous, but the bark, stems and roots, as well. Smoke from a burning field of ivy will irritate the eyes, and even wind-blown pollen of the ivy plant is poisonous.

STANDARD OIL SERVICE

AS SEEN BY

Copyright 1936, Standard Oil Co.

Thousands of newspaper and magazine readers have chuckled over the gay goings-on pictured by the humorous pencil of George Lichty. Here you have his impression of that deft and alert benefactor of motorists, the Standard Dealer. To be sure, Mr. Lichty has let himself go a little in illustrating what happens to a car when it drives up to a Standard Dealer. But if you've experienced it yourself you'll admit that the men who sell Standard's gasoline and motor oil are almost uncanny in spotting what needs to be done to make motoring pleasanter and safer for you. They are helpful without being bothersome—where you see the sign of Standard Service.

WE WILL PAY CASH... We'd like to have your impression of Standard Service, either in writing or in a drawing, or both. This is not a contest—we are simply making this offer. For any original drawing or letter about STANDARD OIL SERVICE which we find acceptable for use in our advertising, we will pay ten dollars. Your nearest Standard Dealer has a card which will give you further details. Drive in and see him today.
